One for the record books

MUMS and dads working away from home, and grandparents living interstate or overseas, can finally stop worrying about baby missing you while you're away.

Hallmark has just released Recordable Storybooks — colourful, illustrated, hardcover children's books that allow the reader to record themselves telling the stories. You can also personalise each page by singing passages or adding introductory messages. The books are available at Kmart, newsagencies, and card and gift stores, and online for $34.99.

Go to www.hallmarkcards.com.au/recordable-storybooks for details.
